SANTA ANA, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Sept. 28, 1999--

CentreCom, Inc., a switch-based global voice-over-Internet Protocol (VoIP) telecommunications service provider, today announced that the company is the Microsoft featured telco on Microsoft's Internet Services Network News, a weekly e-mail newsletter that focuses on hot new ISN solutions.

CentreCom, through its patent pending service, CentreOne, is the world's first provider of phone to PC, PC to phone and phone to phone telecommunications services through the Internet.

"We are excited that Microsoft has chosen CentreCom as a featured telecommunications provider. Today's announcement clearly serves as a testimonial to CentreCom's leadership position in providing cutting-edge telecommunications and VoIP solutions for the global communications market," said Don Feuer, president and CEO of CentreCom. "CentreCom has developed a patent pending sophisticated switched and Internet network system to ensure that our subscribers receive real time enhanced voice communications services, without incurring any additional equipment expenditure."

Every month Microsoft's Internet Services Network News highlights a telco that is experiencing significant business and technological results with the help of Microsoft Internet products and technologies. CentreCom's phone to PC, PC to phone and phone to phone telecommunications services utilize standard based Microsoft products.

Based in Southern Calif., CentreCom Inc. is a facilities-based enhanced global VoIP telecommunications carrier. CentreCom utilizes traditional telecom infrastructure and the Internet and offers seamlessly integrated local, long distance and international voice and messaging services. The company has introduced new cost and functionality price points for calling services, one-number, "follow-me" services including its Click-to-Call(TM) a Web-enabled call center application which is a cost effective way for companies to receive calls directly from their web site without incurring any additional equipment expense. Founded in 1997, CentreCom Inc. is privately held and expects to undergo an Initial Public Offering by March of 2000. CentreCom Inc. estimates it will have
